THE WILD WEST

I'm sure you've heard of famous cowboys like Dr Holiday and the Jesse James brothers. They lived in the wild west, stealing horses of buffalo from the red indians during the civil war in America. The famous indian chief Col. Custer was killed by a sitting bull during a bank raid on the O.K. Corral.

Dr Holiday was the eldest of the James brothers. He was sheriff of a ghost town called Arizona where he invented the famous Winchester 44 knife. Like many cowboys he took to bounty hunting in search of paradise during the gold rush which centered around the alamo, a famous saloon beset by wild indians or 'little big horns' as they were known. They featured in the film 'The Magnificent Seven Dwarfs' which starred Clint Fonda and Gregory Wayne.

Cowboys were a ruthless breed of gamblers, not least of which was Tomo, (played by the Lone Ranger in the series 'Bonanza'). He later teamed up with gunslinger Wild Bill Buffalo in Dodge City, earning him the nickname 'The Virginian', like other cowboys he drank whiskey from a ten gallon hat and had six-guns, two of which he carried in his holsters.

Many wild west towns still exist, perhaps the largest being The Grand Canyon, famous for it's many high Chascales.

TRIBAL WARFARE- Corbett Is S.S. Chief

BY THE VIZ INVESTIGATION TEAM

Viz Comics believe that we have uncovered a massive plot to overthrow the authorities in Newcastle, and indeed all the major world powers.

WEST END

A team of Viz investigators, posing as music journalists, visited a house in the West end of Newcastle and interviewed one Steve Corbett, (real name Steven), who leads a rock band ominously named 'The Tribe'. We believe the band to be a front for the sinister Corbett's para-military activities.

NAZI BID

Corbett's story is unlikely. He gave the band's names only as Tommy, Mick, Spider and himself, and claimed to be influenced by Forties dance music, ironically the decade in which the Nazis made their bid for world domination.

B.L.A.

Throughout the interview Corbett, 20, avoided discussing his political aspirations by offering us tea and talking about Newcastle's inadequate music scene, but at one stage he let slip the fact that he has had close connections with the B.L.A., (Blinken Liberation Army), a terrorist organisation which recently failed in an attempt to declare UDI in 142 Brighton Grove, Newcastle, and on more than one occasion we were casually invited to take part in mock up war games.

Corbett in his Nazi days- he has since had plastic surgery.

VAST AREAS

We have proof that Corbett is at the centre of a terrible plot to bring urban warfare to the streets of Newcastle, and destroy vast areas of the world in due course.

KROTCH

Further investigations have confirmed our fears that Corbett is none other than the notorious former S.S. officer Colonel Wolfgang von Krotch, who fled Germany at the end of the last war. Our team of top investigators handed a dossier on his activities to Interpol, but were told to piss off.

The Tribe plan to play several gigs in the near future. If you see them you are warned not to 'have a go'. Corbett is dangerous and could be armed.

Hostages Held In City Snatch

BY STUNNED REPORTERS

Viz reporters were shocked and terrified as masked raiders dragged us, tied and blindfolded, from our city newscam to a waiting car.

CELLAR

We were then driven at high speeds to a secret hide-out somewhere in Newcastle and held captive in a sound proofed cellar, still bound and gagged, while our captors demanded an interview.

FEAR

Fearing for our very lives, we reluctantly agreed, and the kidnappers removed our blindfolds to reveal themselves as The Hostages, Newcastle's premiere rising rock band.

RAY BYRNE

The kidnap was masterminded by Ray Byrne, (guitar and vocals), assisted by Rob the Gob (Drums), Dave Whittaker (Guitar) and the enchanting Juliet Paccino on bass.

In a large ferocious black hound growled at us from a corner of the room, we were told that the band, who have a considerable local following, have played around a dozen gigs, and have had a rather indifferent session in the studio. They are planning several gigs in the near future, and are hoping to support Gary Glitter at Newcastle Poly. on the 2nd of December.

TOILET

Throughout the ordeal we remained bound and gagged, and were denied food and toilet facilities.

BLINDFOLD

After the interview we were again blindfolded and led into a waiting car. We were eventually released in a dim city side-street and left to find our own way home.

THE

This incident has been reported to the police and they expect to make early arrests.

RUPERT'S SPITFIRE CLEARED FOR TAKE-OFF

It was a sad day when the corner stooped low over the Noise Toys to officially declare the remains of Newcastle's premiere rock band dead, like a close friend who had slowly died of cancer. The illness came suddenly. First the loss of a vital limb, followed by a slow and terminal death.

RABBIT

But technology has advanced in leaps and bounds, like a rabbit frolics in a golden pasture, and like a leading surgeon, former Noise Toy Rupert has transplanted organs from our lost friend into a new body.

TORCH

Out of the black hole left gaping by the loss of The Noise Toys shines a glimmer of hope, like a policeman's torch on a cold November evening.

BY ROCK CRITIC
SAM SMILE

Like a child constructing an Airfix Spitfire kit, Rupert has assembled a new band in Roland la beat & the Jazz.

BLOOM

They have been rehearsing for months, like convicts stitching mailbags in the confines of a rehearsal room. And soon, like a well watered flower, they will bloom in the summer sunshine of success.

TV

Rupert explained, "I watched Al Jolson on TV... his hands, his face... I just wished it was me".

"James Brown was my spiritual father - Al Jolson my inspiration".

Rupert talks quickly, like a man in a talking quickly competition, but his words are fired with passion and accuracy. Like Robin Hood's shafie, they invariably find their mark.

FOX

I spoke to him in The Baltic, a small pub tucked away on Newcastle's quayside in the shadow of the famous Tyne bridge, like a fox sheltering from the hunt. He has had to rinse out the furrows of his mind, like a grim faced housewife pouring stronger - action Gnostos down her toilet. "Out goes depression, crisis, trauma and despair. In comes tension, the adrenalin, the Big Beat".

"The band's personnel are not important in themselves. It's about commitment, desire, motivation, obsession... Playing is a reason for living".

MARS

Yes indeed, it's certainly all change for the band now standing like a train on platform 5. Soon the sun will rise for this, the latest stallion to emerge from the stables of Anti Pop, groomed and ridden by Rupert, a jockey in the true Lester Piggott mould. And like a punter bidding in the ITV Seven, I'll be there, wagering that Roland la beat & the Jazz will be racing to the top, like a rocket jetting out to Mars in the helter skelter galaxy of rock. ## STORM BREWS OVER COMMANDOS' TEA CUP TERROR!

A storm is brewing over the SAS style antics of Newcastle based dance band Arthur 2 Stroke & The Chart Commandos.

OUTRAGE

For the band have caused a major splash by carrying out a daring daylight raid on Newcastle Polytechnic. Students froze with fear as the masked raiders stormed the common room, and according to eye witnesses a lecturer's cup of tea was knocked flying. Officials are outraged at the incident.

Nigel Normanby was inside the building. "We were just sitting, like, drinking our tea, when suddenly a guy burst in sounding a bugle charge on his trumpet. The other ones were carrying cucumbers and yelling 'Get down Harris, get down' and 'Stay flat'. It all happened so quickly".

PANIC

Another witness told us how panic broke out as a cup of tea was spilled. "These men dressed in black just barged past me, sending tea pouring onto a poor young girl and then knocking her to the floor". I understand that the tea cup was unharmed.

SECONDS

The commandos went on to distribute leaflets and then vanished. The entire operation lasted only seconds.

COMPLAINT

Polytechnic authorities made an immediate complaint over the outrage to Anti Pop, the organisation behind the Chart Commandos.

POP

I contacted Anti Pop and spoke to Andy Pop who was unable to make any official comment. "For reasons of security the commandos can never be named. We cannot make any statement at this stage."

RUMOUR

It is rumoured that after the raid the commandos returned to their barracks where they were congratulated by their commanding officer, Arthur 2Stroke. I believe that he was behind this and a similar raid at the University. *

Cheggers. Not Lizard -BBC

The BBC were quick to scotch rumours today, that children's TV presenter Keith Chegwin is an African tree lizard.

The rumours, which came from an undisclosed source stated that Chegwin spent all his spare time eating locusts caught with his long tongue and had also layed eggs in the Blue Peter tree outside the TV centre.

A spokesman for the producers of Cheggers' programmes said, "Chegwin is not a lizard", and later added, "Go away, Chegwin is not a lizard. No comment".
